

PHILANTHROPY NORTH CAROLINA

News, writing and advising for social good

Nonprofit news roundup, 11.10.17

Board and staff changes at Triangle United Way

Jes Averhart, executive director of Leadership Triangle, and Michael Botzis, an assurance partner with RSM US, have joined the board of directors of United Way of the Greater Triangle.

Also joining United Way are Caren Howley, former associate director for alumni engagement and employer strategy for Kenan-Flagler Business School at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, who has been named vice president of strategic partnerships; Emily Page, president of Creative Knowing Consultancy, who has been named senior director of talent development; and Olivia Morris, controller at International Farming Corp., who has been named chief financial officer.